

An aerial grayscale photograph of a mountainous region. The terrain is rugged with numerous ridges and valleys. A prominent river valley runs through the center, leading to a large reservoir or lake in the upper right. The lower right portion of the image shows a more developed area, possibly a town or industrial site, with a grid-like pattern of roads and buildings. The overall scene is a detailed topographic view of a mountain basin.

Progetto di
Piano di Gestione dei bacini idrografici delle Alpi Orientali

05 - Bacino del fiume Sile